

Long live impellers

Here at MBM we are big fans of Speedseal water pump covers, which allow quick and easy access to your impeller without the need for tools. The newest model, the Speedseal Life, is even better than the company's past products. Inside the cover is a bearing, which is said to double or triple the life of the impeller and offer damage limitation in run dry situations. The PTFE disc acts to reduce friction hot spots and not only protects the impeller, but it is also said to increase the life of the pump. The bearings are then simply replaced when they are worn without the need to replace the whole cover.
